

SHE SAYS SHE IS NOT INSANE

MISS FOLSON DENIES THE TRUTH OF HER FATHER'S PETITION.

Dr. Cate Does Not Produce Her in Court, and Tells Judge Patterson he Hasn't Her Address. Mrs. Patterson Says She Supported Her Mother.

When Judge Patterson took his case yesterday morning in Supreme Court, Chambers, the room was filled and there was every evidence of something interesting going on. To the usual crowd of young lawyers waiting for a chance to jump and get in the first word with the judge was added many who had nothing to do but to find out for their own satisfaction whether Dr. William M. Cate would produce in court the body of Miss Agnes Folson, who, her father alleged, was not of sound mind and was kept by duress at Dr. Cate's house.

Shortly after business had begun Dr. Cate and Lawyer Allan entered. One seemed to know Dr. Cate, and he sat alone at the counsel table, undisturbed except by a reporter for THE SUN, who had seen him last September when Miss Folson withdrew from the Casino race.

Dr. Cate, who was dressed in a suit of dark cloth, with a big white cravat. He is tall and well formed, and not the kind of a man little men like to serve disagreeable notices on. He has dark hair and a dark mustache.

Mr. Henry M. Folson came in, and sat opposite Dr. Cate, with his lawyer, Mr. Mundy. Mrs. Folson was not present. Her husband said she was prostrated by her trouble. The outer doors were kept constantly flapping in and out, but no one came in.

At 10 o'clock Dr. Cate was called to the bar by Mr. Mundy. He said that he had seen Miss Folson at her father's house, and that she was of sound mind and was kept by duress at Dr. Cate's house.

Dr. Cate, who was dressed in a suit of dark cloth, with a big white cravat. He is tall and well formed, and not the kind of a man little men like to serve disagreeable notices on. He has dark hair and a dark mustache.

Mr. Henry M. Folson came in, and sat opposite Dr. Cate, with his lawyer, Mr. Mundy. Mrs. Folson was not present. Her husband said she was prostrated by her trouble. The outer doors were kept constantly flapping in and out, but no one came in.

At 10 o'clock Dr. Cate was called to the bar by Mr. Mundy. He said that he had seen Miss Folson at her father's house, and that she was of sound mind and was kept by duress at Dr. Cate's house.

Dr. Cate, who was dressed in a suit of dark cloth, with a big white cravat. He is tall and well formed, and not the kind of a man little men like to serve disagreeable notices on. He has dark hair and a dark mustache.

Mr. Henry M. Folson came in, and sat opposite Dr. Cate, with his lawyer, Mr. Mundy. Mrs. Folson was not present. Her husband said she was prostrated by her trouble. The outer doors were kept constantly flapping in and out, but no one came in.

At 10 o'clock Dr. Cate was called to the bar by Mr. Mundy. He said that he had seen Miss Folson at her father's house, and that she was of sound mind and was kept by duress at Dr. Cate's house.

Dr. Cate, who was dressed in a suit of dark cloth, with a big white cravat. He is tall and well formed, and not the kind of a man little men like to serve disagreeable notices on. He has dark hair and a dark mustache.

Mr. Henry M. Folson came in, and sat opposite Dr. Cate, with his lawyer, Mr. Mundy. Mrs. Folson was not present. Her husband said she was prostrated by her trouble. The outer doors were kept constantly flapping in and out, but no one came in.

At 10 o'clock Dr. Cate was called to the bar by Mr. Mundy. He said that he had seen Miss Folson at her father's house, and that she was of sound mind and was kept by duress at Dr. Cate's house.

Dr. Cate, who was dressed in a suit of dark cloth, with a big white cravat. He is tall and well formed, and not the kind of a man little men like to serve disagreeable notices on. He has dark hair and a dark mustache.

Mr. Henry M. Folson came in, and sat opposite Dr. Cate, with his lawyer, Mr. Mundy. Mrs. Folson was not present. Her husband said she was prostrated by her trouble. The outer doors were kept constantly flapping in and out, but no one came in.

At 10 o'clock Dr. Cate was called to the bar by Mr. Mundy. He said that he had seen Miss Folson at her father's house, and that she was of sound mind and was kept by duress at Dr. Cate's house.

Dr. Cate, who was dressed in a suit of dark cloth, with a big white cravat. He is tall and well formed, and not the kind of a man little men like to serve disagreeable notices on. He has dark hair and a dark mustache.

Mr. Henry M. Folson came in, and sat opposite Dr. Cate, with his lawyer, Mr. Mundy. Mrs. Folson was not present. Her husband said she was prostrated by her trouble. The outer doors were kept constantly flapping in and out, but no one came in.

At 10 o'clock Dr. Cate was called to the bar by Mr. Mundy. He said that he had seen Miss Folson at her father's house, and that she was of sound mind and was kept by duress at Dr. Cate's house.

Dr. Cate, who was dressed in a suit of dark cloth, with a big white cravat. He is tall and well formed, and not the kind of a man little men like to serve disagreeable notices on. He has dark hair and a dark mustache.

Mr. Henry M. Folson came in, and sat opposite Dr. Cate, with his lawyer, Mr. Mundy. Mrs. Folson was not present. Her husband said she was prostrated by her trouble. The outer doors were kept constantly flapping in and out, but no one came in.

At 10 o'clock Dr. Cate was called to the bar by Mr. Mundy. He said that he had seen Miss Folson at her father's house, and that she was of sound mind and was kept by duress at Dr. Cate's house.

IRELAND'S GREAT FRIEND.

GLADSTONE MAKES A STRONG SPEECH AGAINST COERCION.

Ireland's Crime Consists in Opposition to Black Rents—The Parallels Drawn with the Speech—Plans of the Tories.

LONDON, March 24.—In the House of Commons this evening the debate on the motion for urgency for the Coercion bill was resumed by Mr. Gladstone. He referred to the "unprecedented" position of the House, which had already sat two months, during which, he said, its independent initiative had been suppressed. Even now the Conservatives exulted over the prospect of passing a motion forcing the House to an absolute surrender of its whole time to the Government.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

Mr. Gladstone said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country. He said that he was not a man of the House, but he was a man of the country.

THIS BURGlar MEANT MURDER, TOO.

But the Man of the House Deceived Him and Chased Him Away. The Queen's Cup.

John H. Harries' saloon and John Dunford's grocery shop, on the hallway at 1,365 First Avenue, near Seventy-third street. Each store has a door opening into the hallway, near the stairway. Sometimes the outside door is left unlocked over night. At 24 o'clock yesterday morning Dunford, who was asleep back of his grocery, was awakened by the light clatter of a falling tin on the hall.

He got up, and went into the hall, and went in his bare feet, with a candle in his hand, to the hallway, where he discovered that the panes and sash had been cut out from a small window in the saloon wall, half way up the stairs. Dunford went up to the top of the stairs and around Harries, who sleeps over his saloon, by saying:

"There is a burglar in your place, Harries. Get up. Harries partly dressed, and the two men went down stairs, unlocked the side door, and on the balcony. They saw a man crouching in the counter, near the front of the store, examining the money drawer that lay before him.

The burglar wheeled and levelled at Harries a pistol. Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

Harries, who was a man of the House, was not a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House. He was a man of the House.

BLOOD HAS GOT TO FLOW.

MR. SHAFER WILL PROBABLY KILL MR. PULITZER NEXT WEEK.

A Spacious Challenge from the Editor-Poised for 24 Hours by the Advocate—Fires a Reply and Retraints Along the Hudson—A His Case for an Editor.

While Lawyer Ira Shafer was lounging in the Court of Oyer and Terminer on Wednesday, waiting to hear from the Cleary jury, he talked pleasantly, and even joked with the reporters, as THE SUN related yesterday. But all this time the demon of revenge was raging in his bosom, and his heart was full of homicide. He had made up his mind to wait a week, as he said, and to postpone the killing of Mr. Joseph Pulitzer until he had rested himself. If he hated Mr. Pulitzer when he denounced the press during his opening of Cleary's defence on Tuesday and called Mr. Pulitzer a Hun, he would have waited a week, as he said, and to postpone the killing of Mr. Joseph Pulitzer until he had rested himself.

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

"Ira Shafer, Esq.,
Rm. 10, 10th Avenue, New York.
I will meet you at any designated place like this. The sooner the better."
—JAMES PATTERSON.

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

Mr. Shafer put this episode in his pocket and brooded over it until the trial was over. Then he went up to the Manhattan Club, where, he says, he wrote and despatched this:

DR. JONES GOES TO VERMONT.

His Pretty Bookkeeper's Absence at the Same Time Causes Talk.

Dr. E. G. Jones, who advertised extensively in Newark as a cancer specialist, telegraphed from Rutland, Vt., yesterday, to a Newark newspaper, to deny that he had eloped with his pretty bookkeeper, Miss Emma Gade. He stated that he was away on a professional tour. The despatch made no reference to the girl's disappearance, but the Newark police learned that she had bought a ticket for Rutland thence, and that the Doctor purchased his, and that her trunk was on the wagon that carried the Doctor's trunks to the depot on that afternoon.

Jennie was reported to be ill on Monday and Tuesday, and on Wednesday she was found in a house. She found time, however, to slip out and purchase a railroad ticket and to pack her trunk. She was seen by a friend, Miss Bramble, and of several other boarders in the house.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

Dr. Jones said yesterday that her daughter had not been home for about two months. Mrs. Jones was at her home at 265 Clinton avenue, Newark, and said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months. She said that she had not seen her daughter for about two months.

IT SNOWED LOVE LETTERS.

YOUNG MRS. OAKES' MAIL COLLECTED $93 AS THEY FELL.

When Young Mrs. Oakes Got Hold of Them There was a Divorce Suit, and Now Judge Patterson has Got the $93 Letters to Read.

It will be the task of Judge Patterson of the Supreme Court next week to read 283 of the most forcible love letters that ever found their way into a court of law. The letters are part of the evidence in the suit of Frederick Oakes against his wife, Emma M. Oakes, for divorce, which has been pending in the Supreme Court for a year. It came up yesterday on the motion of Frederic R. Couderc, Oakes's lawyer, to confirm the report of the New York Herald Tribune, which reported that Oakes is entitled to a divorce on account of his wife's adultery with Marius DeLazare, a man about town, and a writer of topical songs for theatres.

Oakes is the grandson of the late Winifred Austin, to whom her husband, Broker W. Hutcheson, a well-known Wall Street man, who everybody on the street knows was a bachelor, left a million. Oakes was an honor student of the class of 1876 at Columbia College, and was graduated by the College of Physicians in 1882. Immediately after his graduation he married Emma M. Horn, a lively brunette of 19, who was the daughter of a boarding house keeper in New York City.

After her marriage, Mrs. Oakes, who is now 24, was married to the Little Church around the Corner, and went to live with Oakes's parents at 248 West Twenty-third street. Having inherited a large amount from her grandmother, Oakes did not practise medicine, but spent much of her time, mornings and evenings, in the theatre.

Mrs. Oakes was away from home last week, so the letters were not sent. The letters were sent to her by the express, and she found them in the morning. She found them in the morning, and she found them in the morning. She found them in the morning, and she found them in the morning.

Mrs. Oakes was away from home last week, so the letters were not sent. The letters were